

RADAR STATIONS IN OCEAN — New radar warning stations will be built on platforms similar to this barge dock on which "core-drilling" tests are being made to investigate possible sites. An engineering publication predicts chain of radar platforms will be built out as far as 125 miles in Atlantic. Tests are still being made and it is hoped construction begins by next spring.

Senate Votes To Broaden Social Security Coverage

Democrats Sift Candidates For State Offices

By JACK I. GREEN

GRAND RAPIDS (P)—The Democratic state convention rolled rudderless today waiting word from its captain before selecting state ticket nominees for the November election.

Faced with a record 21 active candidates and half a dozen other possibilities, Gov. Williams refused to give the 1,338 delegates a clue as to whom he wanted on the ticket with him.

A strategy conference of nearly a score of party leaders labored over the swollen list of candidates all Friday night without reaching a definite slate.

Field Narrowed

At daybreak, Neil Staebler, state chairman, said the field had been narrowed to these possibilities: For Attorney General — Thomas M. Kavanagh of Carson City; Herbert W. Devine of Flint, former National VFW commander; Joseph G. Rashid, assistant Wayne County prosecutor and Ben Stanek of Detroit, president of the Polish Union.

For Secretary of State — James M. Hare of Detroit, manager of the State Fair, and James P. Dunnigan, West Branch oil operator. For State Treasurer — James S. Kolkowski of Muskegon; Sanford Brown of Bayport and Thomas C.

More Runaway Russian Agents Reported To Be In Protective Custody

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (P)—More runaway Russian agents are reported today to be standing by in guarded American asylum, ready to follow Yuri A. Rastvorov in denouncing the Soviet communism for which they spied.

The handsome, nimble-witted Rastvorov poured out his story Friday night to a dramatically assembled Friday the 13th news conference at the State Department.

After a lifetime under the Soviet system—he was 33, last month—the blond Russian said he was fed up. He ran away from his job as a Soviet intelligence officer in Japan last Jan. 24 because "I wanted to live like a decent human being."

Shift In Policy

"I hope I can become an American like other Americans," he said. Rastvorov's sudden, unannounced appearance — the first U. S. acknowledgment that he actually was in American hands — apparently marked a shift in America's cold war policy.

The Russians opened propaganda fire with a splashy news conference in the Soviet zone of Berlin last Tuesday when Dr. Otto John, former West German security chief, denounced America and West Germany.

Rastvorov, as he went into action in Washington Friday night, was living proof that Communists shift allegiances, too—even well-trained and highly skilled ones like this lieutenant colonel in the MVD Secret Police.

At Least Four More

Rastvorov even hinted at step number two in taking the sting out of the John defection: Possible arrest of fifth column agents planted "medium-high" in the Japanese government.

But a veritable barrage of Rastvorov-type Russians, it was understood from State Department sources, would be produced by the U. S. government shortly. At least four other Russian intelligence agents are reported to be in American hands—although none of them has attracted publicity.

Indeed, publicity heretofore has been the last thing either they or the U. S. government had wanted. The government has been interested in keeping the Russians guessing—did their man bolt to the West or just fall off a cliff? The Russian agents enjoyed the safety of anonymity.

Not Red Boss In Japan

Now, however, the strategy is understood to be: Bring them out in the open and let them tell their story so the world can see defection is a two-way street, with most of the traffic coming this way.

Rastvorov said he was a member but not the boss of the Soviet intelligence setup in Japan. He said Russia had agents "medium-high" in the Japanese government.

He said, after much prodding by the newsmen, he has told all he knows about Soviet espionage to the U. S. government. Japanese representatives interrogated him, too, he said.

It was on these questionings, Rastvorov implied, that a sweeping roundup of Communist agents inside the Japanese government would be based. Pressed as to when this would come off, he replied: "You may be reading about it soon in the Japanese papers."

Garcia Messages, 'What Happened?'

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (P)—Home didn't look the same, somehow, when Mr. and Mrs. Joe Garcia returned after six months' absence.

Missing were: The bed, cupboards and drawers, tables and four chairs, a medicine cabinet, windows, plumbing pipes, faucets, toilet, drain taps, light bulbs and the clothes line and steel posts, which were dug up from the front yard.

The bewildered Garcias asked their neighbors if they had noticed anything suspicious since they left. The neighbors said no.

Speaker Of House Asks 2-Term Limit For State Governor

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (P)—Wade Van Valkenburg of Kalamazoo, speaker of the state House of Representatives, proposed today a constitutional amendment limiting governors to two terms.

More than one term, he said, threatens one-man domination because "the influence of the governor, through his appointments, carries over so many years after he leaves office."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, a Democrat, now is seeking his fourth consecutive term. Van Valkenburg is a Republican.

Bill Now Goes To Conference On Differences

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (P)—Moving with unaccustomed speed, the Senate voted Friday night to broaden social security coverage to another 6,700,000 workers and to boost both benefits and the payroll taxes that pay for them.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said in an interview he expects a Senate-House conference committee to compromise quickly various differences so the bill can be sent to President Eisenhower, who has placed the legislation high on his "must" list.

Though the House and Senate versions of the social security bill differ in places, they also agree in most important respects.

Benefits Increased

As passed, benefits would be boosted an average of $6 a month for 6½ million persons now on the social security rolls. The annual amount of wages subject to social security taxes would rise from $3,000 to $4,200. This tax is at the rate of 2 per cent on both employers and workers.

Maximum monthly payments for retired individuals would rise from $85 to $108.50. For a couple, the maximum would climb from $127.50 to $172.75.

The two houses parted company on restriction of supplemental earnings by retired folks.

Wage Limits Higher

The House voted to allow social security beneficiaries to make up to $1,000 a year, compared with the present $75-a-month limit, without being penalized. The Senate put the top at $1,200 a year and agreed to include in these earnings only what is received under employment covered by the social security laws. The House Bill would count earnings from any source.

The Senate also voted to lower from 75 to 72 the age at which all restrictions are lifted from outside earnings by beneficiaries.

There is considerable disparity in the types and numbers of persons who would be brought under social security under the Senate and House bills.

Includes Farm Hands

The House bill calls for coverage of 3,600,000 farm operators, about 400,000 professionals and 150,000 federal workers — all of whom were cut out of the Senate bill by the Finance Committee. Furthermore, the House bill would blanket in some 1,300,000 farm hands — about half the number provided in the Senate bill.

The Senate bill would cover some 3,500,000 state and local government employees and 260,000 clergymen on a voluntary basis, 250,000 domestics, 100,000 industrial home workers, 50,000 in the fishing industry and — added in amendments last night — funeral directors and missionaries outside the country.

Bill To Outlaw Reds Is Opposed By Eisenhower

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

THURMONT, Md. (P)—President Eisenhower was pictured today as convinced a Senate-approved bill to outlaw the Communist party would make "propaganda martyrs" of Reds in this country. He reportedly will try to persuade the House to kill the measure.

An administration official familiar with the views of the President who is spending the weekend at his Catoctin Mountain lodge here, also told newsmen Eisenhower is in complete agreement with Atty. Gen. Brownell and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover on the matter.

Both men have opposed outlawing the Communists on the grounds it would drive them underground and make it much more difficult to keep track of them.

The administration source here, who asked not to be named, said the President or his aides probably will talk privately with House leaders in an effort to get the bill shelved.

The bill to outlaw the Communist party was passed by the Senate Thursday night by vote of 85 to 0. Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) led the successful surprise move which combined the outlawing provision with another anti-Communist weapon on the administration does want.

That other section of the bill, authored by Sen. Butler (R-Md.), is aimed at wiping out Communist-controlled labor unions. It provides that labor or business organizations determined by the subversive Activities Control Board to be Communist-dominated would lose their rights under the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Year Prison Term

Humphrey's proposal would provide maximum penalties of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine for persons who willfully join or remain members of the Communist party and commit any act to carry out party purposes.

Despite Eisenhower's reported opposition to outlawing the Reds, his aides declined to speculate on whether he would veto the combination bill if the House goes along with the Senate and approves it.

But the President was said to feel that such a measure would be most ineffective.

He was understood to have expressed the view Communists abroad would be quick to spread propaganda picturing U. S. Reds as martyrs and victims of persecution. And he also reportedly feels the security of the country can be best safeguarded by avoiding steps which would force the Reds further into hiding.

World Council Of Churches Meets In Evanston Sunday

EVANSTON, Ill. (P)—Church leaders from 161 Christian, anglican and Orthodox denominations in 48 countries Sunday open the second General Assembly of the World Council of Churches.

The Assembly, to continue to Aug. 31, has been called the most important religious event ever held in the United States.

The 1,500 delegates, consultants and accredited visitors to the Assembly, the first since 1948, represent nearly 170 million persons. The membership includes 31 denominations in the United States.

"Christ—Hope of World"

Roman Catholics are not represented at the Assembly. But the W. C. C., founded at its first World Assembly in Amsterdam, comprises churches on every continent and in countries representing almost every political allegiance.

Five In Family Killed By Train

COAL CITY, Ill. (P)—Five members of a family were killed Friday night when a speeding Santa Fe freight train collided with an automobile loaded with 10 persons.

Members of two Central City, Ill., families were crammed into the car.

Grundy county deputies said the car drove through a wig-wag warning signal at a crossing on the main street of Coal City, 60 miles southwest of Chicago.

The car drove directly into the path of the speeding train and was knocked against the wig-wag signal on the opposite side of the tracks. Passengers in the car, including several small children, were thrown out.

Four persons died outright; another died enroute to a hospital. Deputies said the driver of the car, Howard Barnes, 39, escaped with minor injuries. Killed were five members of the Barnes family: Barnes' wife Clara Mae, 33, his son, Howard Jr., 4, and his daughters Irene, 12, Edna, 11, and Wilma, 9.

Taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet were Doris Shane, 19, her 19-months-old son, Jimmy, and another of Barnes' sons, Johnny, 13.

Mrs. Shane and her son were listed in "fair" condition. The Barnes boy was less seriously injured.

Another passenger in the car, Earl Shane, was shaken up by the crash but was not hospitalized.

The main theme of the Assembly will be "Christ—the Hope of the World." Under this general heading, the Assembly will survey the problems and responsibilities confronting the church in six particular fields: Faith and order, evangelism, social questions, international affairs, intergroup relations, and the laity.

President Eisenhower will address the Assembly Thursday. Some 15,000 persons are expected to hear his address in nearby Deering Meadow.

Festival of Faith

But the Assembly's scheduled event which is expected to draw the largest crowd will be a dramatic "festival of faith," a gigantic public worship service at Soldier Field Sunday night.

With favorable weather, leaders expect some 100,000 to attend the festival at the huge lake front arena. The festival, with a cast of nearly 3,000 participating in Music, pageantry and drama, will open with a procession by the delegates.

They will wear the vestments of ecclesiastical attire and carry flags of their countries. They will march to their places in Soldier Field grouped alphabetically by countries and by denominations within each national group.

2,000-Voice Choir

There will be a 2,000-voiced choir, 400 actors and a 200-piece orchestra. The Council's five co-presidents will participate in the services.

The co-presidents also will attend the opening worship services to be held at 10 a.m. CDT Sunday in the First Methodist Church of Evanston, home of Northwestern University. General sessions will be held in Northwestern University's McGraw Memorial Hall.

Many of the church leaders have been here this week and several preliminary conferences have been held.

About 40 interpreters will come from New York and Geneva, Switzerland. World Council headquarters, to translate documents and interpret in meetings. Discussions at the meetings will be in three languages, English, French and German.

Studebaker Will Reduce Car Prices

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (P)—Studebaker Corp. says it will reduce prices by about $100 on its 1955 models.

The announcement was made Friday, a day after workers at the big automotive plant voted to accept a 14 per cent pay cut in a move to save their jobs and the company.

Allies Meet Sept. 6 To Create Southeast Asian United Defense

WASHINGTON (P)—The United States today announced it will join seven other allies Sept. 6 at Baguio in the Philippines to discuss creation of a united defense against communism in Southeast Asia.

Simultaneously, the State Department said a meeting will be held Sept. 4 between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Philippine officials under the Philippine-U. S. mutual defense agreement.

The announcement of the Sept. 6 meeting to organize a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Europe, was made jointly today in the capitals of the eight nations involved.

Proposed By Dulles

The American statement said the government of these "like minded" countries — Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan, and the Philippines — aim to "strengthen the fabric of peace in the general area of Southeast Asia and the Southwest Pacific."

Such a united defense, to stem the Communist advance in that area, has been sought by Dulles since early this year.

The U. S. announcement said the United States has been in consultation with the other governments for four months—which would soon after Dulles' March 29 speech in New York City calling for a united defense and if need be, united action in Southeast Asia.

Text of Announcement

The government of the United States has agreed with other like minded governments that the situation in Southeast Asia calls for the establishment of a collective security arrangement, in accordance with the purposes and principles of the charter of the United Nations, to strengthen the fabric of peace in the general area of Southeast Asia and the Southwest Pacific.

A similarly worded statement was issued in London where a British foreign office spokesman said Pakistan, one of the Colombo powers, had qualified its acceptance by declaring:

"The Pakistan government will be represented at this meeting without having accepted any commitment in advance to participate in any scheme that might emerge out of these deliberations."

Britain was represented as still hoping that the other Colombo powers—India, Indonesia, Burma and Ceylon—will alter their neutralist stand and associate themselves with the pact that is to be considered at the Baguio conference.

The State Department's second brief statement said that, while in the Philippines for the SEATO meeting, Dulles would also discuss "matters of mutual concern" between the United States and the Philippines.

Bank Business Higher In U. P.

Upper Peninsula bank debits, indicating business activity in the region, was slightly below July last year in a comparison for that month, but for the first seven months of 1954 was considerably higher than the same period last year, according to a report from the Ninth Federal Reserve District.

Escanaba continued to hold third place in bank debits among Upper Peninsula cities, for July, with Sault Ste. Marie ranking first and Marquette second. For the seven-month period, however, Marquette was in first place, with Sault Ste. Marie second and Escanaba third.

Bank debits figures for July, 1954, for cities in this area are as follows:

Sault Ste. Marie	$11,190,000
Marquette	$10,832,000
Escanaba	$10,307,000
Menominee	$7,415,000
Iron Mountain	$7,427,000
Manistique	$2,953,000

Bank debits for the seven-month period (January-July) 1954 are as follows:

Marquette	$74,375,000
Sault Ste. Marie	$70,665,000
Escanaba	$68,135,000
Menominee	$49,351,000
Iron Mountain	$48,981,000
Manistique	$18,132,000

For the most part, bank debits are checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payments for goods, services, debits, and so forth.

Vandals Raise Havoc With School Near Menominee

MENOMINEE—Sheriff Edward J. Reindl Friday reported investigation under way into extensive vandalism at the Hamilton school in Menominee Township on County Road 577 about two miles from the city. Damage to the building, text books, etc., will run into hundreds of dollars, Reindl said.

The vandalism took place sometime during the last three weeks, while the building had been locked up for the summer. Entry was gained by breaking a window. Once inside, the vandals upended desks, poured cleansing powder over the text-books, jammed the drinking fountain open with a book, causing water to flood the floor and damaged about three-fourths of it. More water seeped through to the basement and damaged a cook stove.

While the acts bore all the marks of a gang of juveniles bent on being just plain ornery, Reindl said, there was one odd angle to the case. On the blackboard some one had sketched a chalk drawing of Marilyn Monroe with a better-than-average ability. Reindl claims to be no authority on portrait sketching but insists it was a "perfect" likeness of the movie star.

One Body Found In Triple Drowning At Indian Lake

MANISTIQUE—Clad only in shorts, the body of William A. Van Hook, 25, of Chicago, was found at 8:30 a. m. today at Indian Lake. He was one of three fishermen, a father and two sons, who drowned Tuesday.

Still objects of search are the bodies of James A. Van Hook, 59, Chicago, and the elder son, James E., 39, of Barry, Ill.

Motorists Ticketed—Escanaba police have issued traffic violation tickets to the following motorists: Leonard Lamb, Escanaba, failure to stop at crosswalk; Roger J. Schultz, 508 S. 7th St., disobeying a stop sign; Mrs. Clarence Moreau, 1109 Lake Shore Drive, no operator's license on person; Monroe Harrison, 2721 Lake Shore Drive, defective brakes; Fred Malmstrom, 1414 1st Ave. N., failure to yield right of way; Harold E. Leisner, Escanaba Rte. 1, speeding; Claude E. Hawkins, 818 Dakota Ave., Gladstone, failure to yield right of way.

The body of the youngest victim of the triple tragedy was found floating about 75 feet off shore at Dawson's Resort at the northeast end of Indian Lake by Bob Michaels of North Shore Road, Hiawatha Township, while he was walking the beach.

Taken to the Kefauver-Jackson Funeral Home, the body is expected to be held there pending outcome of the continuing search for the body of the other two men.

A helicopter, piloted by Lt. Comm. Paul Morosky, of the U. S. Air Force base at Kinross near Sault Ste. Marie again joined the search for the bodies today. It refueled at Escanaba airport about 11 a. m. and then returned to Indian Lake.

About one dozen boats are out on the lake in dragging operations, and additional volunteers and law enforcement officers are patrolling the shores.

The three men failed to return after setting out last Tuesday in rough water with an aluminum boat. Equipment from the boat and the boat itself were later found along the shore.

A reward of $100 has been offered by friends and relatives of the men for the recovery of their bodies. The three wives and six children of the accident victims are staying at Happy Landing Resort at Indian Lake.

Two Marquette Prison Convicts Face New Charges

MARQUETTE—Two Marquette Prison inmates were bound over to the September term of Marquette County circuit court by Judge Edward H. Dembowski in municipal court Thursday, following preliminary examinations conducted by Prosecuting Attorney Edmund J. Thomas.

Harry Lancaster, 51, was held to the September term on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time, and Boyce Chester Langley, 53, was bound over on a charge of breaking prison. They had demanded the hearings when arraigned in court last week, and were remanded to the custody of Prison Warden Emory E. Jacques.

Lancaster is a life-terminer, who was sentenced for first degree murder. He was implicated in the burglary of the Railway Express office here on Aug. 7, 1951.

Roy Bedell, 34, an ex-convict who also was implicated in the burglary, was sentenced to a prison term in the June circuit term on a charge of conspiracy. Lancaster, then a trusty at the prison, had been assigned to an outside post.

On the night of Aug. 7, 1951 he allegedly stole a car in South Marquette and drove it to the express office, where he is said to have stolen two loaded revolvers after being unable to open the safe in the office.

The weapons were recovered by city and state police. Since then, Lancaster has been confined behind the walls at the prison.

Survey Repairs At Yacht Basin

In the face of steadily declining use of the Escanaba yacht harbor by yachtmen and other water tourists from Great Lakes port cities, a study of the cost of necessary improvements there is being made by Loren W. Jenkins, Escanaba city engineer.

Jenkins has been authorized to make a study and report on replacements and improvements necessary to restore the yacht harbor facilities to the point where they again would be attractive to outside yachtmen.

Specifically, immediate needs at the harbor are the "L" dock, approximately 150 feet of piling and siding adjacent to the "L" dock to permit safe mooring and eliminate damage to boats tying up there and restoration of the slips south of the "L" dock.

"Because the once attractive yacht harbor has deteriorated, Escanaba is losing considerable business from visiting yachtmen," Mayor Harlan J. Yelland said yesterday.

"Accurate records of the number of water tourists here have been kept year after year. They disclose a steady decline in use of the harbor. All of which indicates, of course, that our yacht harbor does not measure up to requirements of an attractive base that would encourage yachtmen to visit here."

"The records for the past few years particularly show practically no repeat visits which means that once having seen the deplorable condition of our harbor, visitors do not care to come again. We certainly should correct this condition before it gets any worse."

"We spend considerable money to improve facilities for automobiles and airplanes but we have been overlooking one of our greatest assets and greatest tourist attraction, our waterfront."

Mayor Yelland said 55 boats visited the city in 1949, 42 in 1950, 37 in 1951, 34 in 1952 and only 21 in 1953. Records this year disclose continuation of the decline.

He also pointed out that when in Escanaba, water tourists spend liberally on groceries, meats, gas and oil, soft drinks, beer and liquor, clothing and other needs.

Forecast Showers Through Weekend

A cool air mass accompanied by a high pressure area which held over the Upper Peninsula all week has moved out and been replaced by a low pressure area pushing down from Southwestern Ontario. Showers are already in progress in Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and southern Michigan. Weatherman S. E. Decker said that they will reach this area late this afternoon or tonight and continue through Sunday. Houghton was the only spot in the U. P. which recorded any rain up to 7:30 this morning.

The temperature today will get up to the low 70's near the lake and a little warmer away from the lake. The high yesterday was 70 and the low last night was 62. Marquette was the warmest with 70 and 80 and Houghton was the coolest with 56.

Hot Tip For Mothers Looking For Career-How About Teaching?

MRS. Alice K. Leopold, head of the Women's Division, Department of Labor, and Samuel M. Brownell, United States commissioner of education, gave a hot tip Wednesday to mothers looking for a career. Why not go into teaching?

School districts all over America are taking a second look at outmoded regulations that were created to restrict married women from the teaching profession. The new look, of course, is the result of necessity because of the dire teacher shortage. But school officials now concede that the old regulation was a mistake anyway. Married women make excellent teachers. They possess mature judgment and, having children of their own, they understand children's personalities.

As a matter of truth, the old regulations that were invoked by school districts discouraging married women from the teaching profession are at least partly responsible for today's teacher shortage.

Women naturally look to marriage as their main objective in life. Why, then, spend four years or more and thousands of dollars to prepare for a teaching career only to have the door slammed in your face a year or two after graduation, simply because you chose to be married?

Undoubtedly this reasoning has kept literally thousands of young women from entering teacher training schools.

The broader viewpoint now being taken by school districts should reverse this trend and should encourage more young people to train for a career in teaching.

The married women who have returned to the teaching profession the past several years have helped to solve one of the most pressing domestic problems of our times, the critical shortage of teachers. Without them, the educational system in America would have been in a terrible mess.

The need for more teachers is expanding. This year and for the next five or six years school enrollment will increase very rapidly. More schools are being built to meet the need but the big bottleneck still is a shortage of trained qualified teachers.

So the tip given by Mrs. Leopold and Mr. Brownell at their joint press conference Wednesday is a particularly good one for married women.

Why not go into teaching?

Military Reserve Poses A Problem

AMERICA'S military reserves evidently have been in a deteriorating condition for a good while. And it seems fairly plain that the government has been slow to devise a policy to cope with the problem.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson says that if war came tomorrow, the reserve situation would be a "scandal." This is taken to mean that the National Guard, backbone of the existing reserve system, would not be ready for field action for many months.

Much too late for decision in this Congress, a new plan was offered by former Assistant Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah. It prescribes compulsory military service for all young men, plus duty in the reserves. There would be three million men each in active forces and reserves.

Under present arrangement, the National Guard is operated on an individual, state-by-state basis. The law contains broad loopholes to make the system flexible, so the Guard can meet the special needs of the 48 separate states.

But it is argued that this setup is obsolete in an age of atomic weapons. Thus the Hannah plan proposes that all reserves be merged with the Guard in one single, federalized force. Funds would be asked to keep major units of this force fully trained and equipped and ready for combat at all times.

Naturally, there is either opposition or an expression of caution from affected reserve outfits, including the Guard. Their individuality would be diminished, and the Guard would be less of a state-controlled militia than it now is. Some state officials wonder about its availability for dealing with state disasters like riots, tornadoes and floods.

As currently laid out, the Hannah program lacks details. It is not in legislative form, and presumably much spadework is needed to get it into such shape even by next January. Yet it represents a start toward mending a very dangerous situation.

The Christian as Citizen

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Another July 4 has passed, and in Canada July 1 was celebrated to honor the formation of the Dominion by the Act of Confederation in 1867. It is Canada's "Dominion Day."

Such events in these two great democracies inevitably incline one toward much reflection concerning God and country, the nature of true patriotism, and the relationship between Christianity and democracy. The Christian in the very nature of his religion has a clear and particular obligation as a citizen. Brotherly love is of the very essence of human relationships in the religious faith that flows from belief in a God of love.

Saint Paul says that we are members one of another (Ephesians 4:25); and the Apostle John says "If God so loved us, we ought also to love one another" (1 John 4:11).

That is the Christian ideal. What a democracy it would be if all men believed in it, and practiced it. But all citizens are not Christians; there are the Jews from whom this Christian heritage came, and who share with Christians this ideal of human relationships.

Their history in the conception of the Commonwealth of Israel profoundly illustrates both the greatness of a people "whose God is the Lord," and how tragically a nation called of God can fail when that call is spurned or forgotten.

What seems to me the noblest expression of true and impassioned patriotism came out of an Israel that had learned through suffering and exile. It is in the 62nd chapter of Isaiah: "For Zion's sake will I not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest until the righteousness thereof go forth as brightness, and the salvation thereof as a lamp that burneth."

If every citizen in a democracy could see in his country an ideal Zion, set for light and leadership among the nations (see Malachi 3:12), what a different world might well emerge instead of a world of international fear, suspicion, and strife.

An eminent English hymn-writer expressed that ideal in a Congregational hymnbook: "Lift thy song among the nations, England of the Lord beloved." It is a pity that that hymn could not be adapted to, and sung in, every democratic land.

And at least four lines concerning God's call would need no alteration at all: "How He trusts thee with the treasure Of His Word to send it forth; Mightily fulfill His pleasure Send His Word o'er all the earth!"

So much for a national ideal. But a nation depends upon what its citizens are. And here, I think, is one of the deeply wrong and dangerous conceptions of democracy. It is merely that democracy consists in majority rule.

Majority rule, popular government, is better than the rule of a dictator, or the rule of a minority. But majority rule is a necessary procedure, or technique, of democracy; not its essence or true foundation.

Government of the people, by the people, for the people, has its sure foundation only as the hearts, minds, and wills of a people are self-ruled.

Edson In Washington

(Peter Edson, Washington news analyst, will substitute once each week for David Lawrence, whose column is available only five days weekly.)

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The keynote speech for the 1954 congressional election campaign will probably be delivered Aug. 19 when President Eisenhower speaks at the Illinois State Fair Grounds in Springfield.

This occasion is expected to develop into a White House "laying on of hands" to bless the candidacy of Republican Joseph T. Meek, who is running to unseat the incumbent Democratic Sen. Paul Douglas.

President Eisenhower recently wrote Mr. Meek, saying that he "looked forward with anticipation," to greeting Mr. Meek in Washington next January as the new junior senator from Illinois.

"Looking forward with anticipation" is of course a lot easier than looking forward in retrospect. There is no particular strain on the credulity for anyone who can just shut out the past.

BUT POLITICAL EXPERTS who are familiar with the record and past utterances of Mr. Meek have been wondering how or why Mr. Eisenhower's aides allowed him to get caught so far out on a limb in endorsing the Meek candidacy. This is particularly emphasized by two facts.

1. President Eisenhower had originally said that he would endorse no individual candidates. This was later altered to a statement that the President would endorse only those candidates who had supported his program.

2. The supposedly independent Citizens for Eisenhower committee had recently refused support for Mr. Meek because he did not support the President's program.

Mr. Meek's record in not supporting the President's legislative program is both clear and extensive.

At Urbana, on Feb. 25, Mr. Meek declared that, "The mavericks and hybrids in Washington today, passing as Republicans, are enough to turn your stomach."

ON MARCH 23, Mr. Meek came out for a flexible farm price support program, as advocated by President Eisenhower. At the Harvard, Ill., Milk Day celebration on June 5, however, Mr. Meek declared: "I don't think the farmer needs any political recipe. He'll solve his own problems if he is given freedom to do so." This is taken to mean that he is now against all price supports.

At Mount Vernon Ill., on April 30, Mr. Meek said: "I am a Republican but I am not too happy with my party nor with its embracement of too many relics of the past."

While this might be taken as a repudiation of conservatism and an endorsement of progressive Republicanism, that is not Mr. Meek's record. He was a Taft supporter in 1952 and he is closely identified with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who was Taft's choice for vice president. The "relics" Meek complained of were Democratic policies.

Mr. Meek favored Senator Bricker's proposed amendment to the Constitution, to redefine the President's treaty-making powers. President Eisenhower opposed it. On May 14, Mr. Meek said, "I won't change my support for the Bricker amendment."

On foreign aid, which President Eisenhower had supported, Mr. Meek on June 6 at Springfield declared: "It's high time we had someone in Washington who will rear up and scream to high heaven about American citizens being sold down the river to keep the rulers of foreign countries in luxury."

EARLIER HE HAD SAID: "The United States must at all costs walk alone rather than get involved with ingrate and insincere nations."

The strongest endorsement of President Eisenhower which Mr. Meek has given so far is a rhetorical question: "How can I be anti-Eisenhower if I am for the platform on which he was elected?" He has declared that this platform was "one of the finest, most hopeful documents ever devised."

A careful check of Mr. Meek's statements in his own "Retail News Briefs" reveals, however, that he has opposed the Republican platform planks on government loans to small business, Taft-Hartley labor law revision, social security, the minimum wage, equal pay for women and fair employment practices.

This record poses a serious problem for President Eisenhower. If such a record can win endorsement from the White House, then anyone wearing a Republican label can win it.

Land Of Midnight Sun To Have First Royal Visitor In August

WHERE DUKE WILL DROP IN: Mining camps like this one in Labrador will give Queen of England's husband an idea of northern Canada's booming resources during his flying tour of area.

By JAMES MONTAGNES

TORONTO—(NEA)—When a Royal Canadian Air Force transport plane touches down at Coppermine, 200 miles north of the Arctic Circle, in mid-August, the Duke of Edinburgh will step out to become the first member of Great Britain's royal family to visit the land of the midnight sun. Coppermine will mark the northernmost stop on an air tour of Canada's northland being made by the husband of Queen Elizabeth II. A scientifically-minded man, the Duke of Edinburgh is coming to see how the airplane has unlocked the northern areas of this continent.

This will be no ceremonial state visit, but a fast-paced trip across thousands of miles of bleak, rocky, lake-studded and practically uninhabited territory.

In less than three weeks—from July 29 to Aug. 17—the Duke will see Eskimos and Indians, airborne geologists and prospectors, helicopters making instrument surveys for mineral-bearing ridges, as well as new sub-Arctic and Arctic mining camps where gold, radium, silver, iron and other metals are being mined in increasing quantities.

At Port Radium on Great Bear Lake, for instance, the Duke will see a community the airplane brought into being.

A prospector, Gilbert LaBine, flying over the shores of Great Bear Lake in 1930 had noticed peculiarly colored rock outcropping there. His investigations on shore confirmed his hopes. Today, as a government-owned radium mine, the deposits are the main North American source of radium for atomic weapons and peacetime atomic energy developments.

North of Port Radium is Coppermine, a fur post, Royal Canadian Mounted Police base, mission post, and location of meteorological and radio stations for commercial flying in the far north as well as for defense purposes.

Here the Duke will get a look at part of North America's Arctic defenses.

At Yellowknife on Great Slave Lake, he will visit a modern sub-Arctic town which has grown up from a rich gold strike made there about 15 years ago. Now almost a dozen mines are in production in the vicinity, producing not only gold but also silver, lead, zinc and other strategic minerals. Yellowknife is now the largest community in the Northwest Territories, with about 5000 people, its own electric power supply from rapid-strewn rivers in the area, with hotels, banks, theaters, sidewalks, sewers, roads, taxis and stores.

At Port Churchill on the west coast of Hudson Bay the Duke will see an important defense post where United States and Canadian forces work together.

Built 25 years ago as a seaport for shipping grain from the Canadian prairies, Churchill has grain elevators and docks where each summer freighters come via the ice-strewn Hudson's Straits, to take on grain for British and western European ports.

Further east the Duke will see the latest in Canada's mining developments, the new iron ore deposits in Labrador. This summer the 360-mile railway from Seven Islands on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River will be completed, and iron ore will come down from the rich deposits in the uninhabited Labrador - Quebec hinterland.

U. S. and Canadian mining interests developed this area in the past few years, pushing its completion ahead of schedule when the Korean War broke out in 1950.

At the Knobb Lake mine-site, the royal visitor will see ore being loaded from the open-pit mining development onto specially built ore cars for the long journey to Seven Islands, then by water to the steel mills in the Great Lakes area of the U. S. and Canada.

On Canada's west coast, the Duke will visit the new aluminum refinery being built 400 miles north of Vancouver at Kitimat. An Indian village five years ago, Kitimat is being built into a town for 50,000. Power for the project comes over the mountains from a huge new development now under construction 50 miles away. Kitimat will be the largest aluminum refining town in the world.

In addition to his northern trip, the Duke will visit defense bases on the prairies, see Canada's atomic energy plant north of Ottawa, and stop over at Ottawa, Victoria and Vancouver. At Vancouver he will attend the British Empire and Commonwealth Games during the first week of August.

MAN AND DOG—Undoubtedly there are some persons, including owners of dogs, who fail to understand the need for laws controlling dogs and the enforcement of those laws.

Perhaps they see no reason for the Escanaba city ordinance requiring that dogs must receive anti-rabies shots before they are licensed; for the State Health Department requirement that dogs that bite a human be confined for 10 days for rabies observation.

No doubt they are equally unaware of the necessity for enforcement of the state dog law, which has now been started in Delta County by action of the Board of Supervisors. And there will be some citizens who may protest that hiring of a dog warden and enforcement of the law is a waste of money.

To better understand the situation as it affects man and dog it is necessary to trace the background of their long association—and the problems created thereby.

The dog has been called man's best friend, justifiably so in most instances; yet in other cases he has also been proven as man's enemy. Dogs have killed children as well as saved them, destroyed livestock as well as protected it.

IN THE BEGINNING—The long and sometimes intimate association of man and dog began before the dawn of recorded civilization, when man was a hunter and the dog was his helper who was rewarded with scraps tossed to him after the game was killed.

The dog was, therefore, a companion in the chase, as he is to this day among the ranks of sportsmen. As civilization advanced the dog guarded the home and the fields and the livestock.

Primitive man had an easy and effective method of controlling his dogs. Should any of them show signs of being ugly and unruly they were consigned to the stew pot, as was the custom among the American Indians.

The friendship between man and dog has continued long after the need of man for the dog ended, and today the dog is listed as a pet rather than an essential. In the process, however, man's heart proved bigger than his head, for many owners grew tired of their pets and allowed them to stray uncontrolled, to forage for food, and to become a public nuisance.

ENFORCED CONTROL—Enforcement of the state dog control law has been slow in coming to Delta County, although it is being enforced more or less successfully in other Michigan counties.

As might be expected, because of urban conditions, Escanaba was for many years the only political unit of the county to require licensing. This was done in an effort to make the dog owner feel more responsible for the care and control of the animal.

Adoption of an ordinance requiring that all dogs receive anti-rabies shots before licensing was strictly a public health measure—for in past years there have been proven cases of rabies in animals in the area. This shows that rabies is endemic in the area "and continued vigilance of all concerned is required to keep it from becoming epidemic."

Of 184 cases of rabies in animals in Michigan in 1952, 152 were in dogs and 19 in cats. Such figures establish the necessity for immunizing dogs against rabies—since man insists on keeping the dog as a pet. Thus both dog and man are protected.

THE TEN DAYS—Why does the health department insist that in dog bite cases the animal be kept under observation for rabies for 10 days?

The answer is that if the dog does not show symptoms of rabies within that period, the human (usually a child) does not have to receive antirabic vaccine—a painful and sometimes dangerous treatment.

A doctor speaking at a conference on rabies control, held last year in Lansing, warned against indiscriminate antirabic treatment, which can cause a serious and often fatal complication.

Under any circumstance, barring the necessity to kill the dog if it is attacking a human, the dog should not be destroyed but kept alive for observation. And if the dog is killed, the brain should be preserved for laboratory analysis to determine if the dog was rabid.

The dog laws are, therefore, designed not to harass or punish either the dog or his owner. Rather they are established to protect the public from the homeless and presumably unloved stray canine, who has been abandoned by his owner.

The short evening gown blooms at its prettiest this fall in a formal look, formal fabrics. Pale green satin dress by Talmack (left) has little clutch jacket with deep collar in pale gray fox. Jacket has deeply bloused back; easy fullness in skirt is achieved by unpressed pleats. Moonlight silk satin is used by Mollie Parnis for short dancing dress (right). This has V-shaped bodice and full skirt shaped with pailon.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Evening costume is a term most aptly applied to the look of evening fashions for fall.

In the past, we've said evening dresses or gowns, referring to the short or the floor-length dress. This year, the short dress is indisputably the most important and to it has been added the little bloused jacket that makes of it a costume.

For these little waist-length, infinitely flattering jackets there is no trim in form of pastel fox, white muskrat, mink or ermine, red mole, sable or chinchilla. Designer Jane Derby shows these little jackets throughout her collection.

This evening costume takes another form in the short but very formal gown with its own coat in matching or contrasting color. Gleaming satin is a favorite for the costume, in colors ranging from the palest off-white to black. Mollie Parnis does these beautifully.

Generally, the silhouette for the short formal is divided equally between the sleek and the frothy. There are some longer bodices making fashion news, achieving a molded, willowy look.

The sleek sheaths either take interest from fabric or from all-over embroidery or crystals. There are glowing, metallic fabrics and many crisp silks for the short formal.

Ask Your Doctor

Generally, they starve themselves in their efforts to acquire a svelte look. But, you cannot gain a streamlined figure through starvation. You'll only lose both looks and health.

Besides being harmful, "fad" diets should be avoided because they create real hunger for the dieter. They cannot provide you with enough fuel, calories, or essential nutrients to carry on your everyday activities.

Your own doctor is the best person to consult if you are even thinking about dieting. Depending on your condition, he'll choose one for you. Whatever it is, you can be sure it will be both balanced and sufficient. He'll tell you the safest amount of weight to be lost each week, too.

Cut Down On Sweets
Of course, if your overweight problem is less than ten pounds and you are in good health, you can plan your own safe diet. Just cut down on sweets and starches. Reach for a celery stalk instead of that piece of chocolate. And if you can substitute fresh fruit instead of a piece of strawberry shortcake for dessert, you're on your way to learning the technique of permanent weight control.

Prison Breakers Are Recaptured

BOSTON (AP)—Five desperate escapees from Norfolk Prison Colony face arraignment today before a U.S. commissioner and possible life imprisonment on double kidnapping charges.

The armed desperadoes, captured Friday in Rhode Island and Connecticut less than 24 hours after they fled the Massachusetts prison with a guard hostage, were returned here today.

One of the escapees was flushed from a Pawtucket, R.I., swamp, two were hauled from a stolen car near Putnam, Conn., and the other two were taken in a nearby Putnam woodland by heavily armed local and state police and FBI agents.

Hostage Unharmed

The guard hostage, Walter F. De Adder, 29, of Lawrence, who spent 15 terror-filled hours in the escapees' hands, was rescued unharmed. A Pawtucket garage mechanic, Peter Cherniavski, 36, also taken hostage by the fleeing convicts, was freed unhurt.

Limping with a broken foot, Richard Lavoie, 40, of Woonsocket, R.I., was captured in a Pawtucket swampland, some 12 miles from the Massachusetts Prison Colony.

A short time later Connecticut State Police pulled Russell Halliday, 26, of Cambridge, Mass., and James L. Schworm, 31, of Malden, Mass., from a stolen car off Route 44 near Putnam, about 40 miles from the colony.

Kidnaping Charge

And minutes after, William J. Couture, 40, of Taunton, Mass., and Martin F. Feeney, 38, of Boston, surrendered in a woodland not far from the car.

Lavoie was arraigned Friday night in Providence before U. S. Commissioner M. Louis Abedon on a federal charge of kidnaping De Adder. He waived hearing, was held in $100,000 bail, and was returned here with the others.

Eisenhowers Hosts To Cabinet, Wives At Picnic Party

THURMONT, Md. (AP)—The picnic President and Mrs. Eisenhower gave for members of the cabinet and their wives featured hot dogs and ice cream, and everybody appeared to have a jolly good time.

The informal outing Friday was at the President's secluded lodge here in the Catoctin Mountains. The day started on the serious side with a two and a half hour cabinet meeting on such matters as aid for Indochina refugees.

But when that session broke up, Eisenhower and his official family put aside business and relaxed the rest of the day.

First there was a light lunch served on the spacious lawn at Camp David, the presidential retreat named for his 6-year-old grandson.

The group—which included several top administration officials who aren't cabinet members—munched hot dogs and chocolate-covered ice cream on sticks.

Court Hearing On Dr. Small's Sanity Scheduled Sept. 8

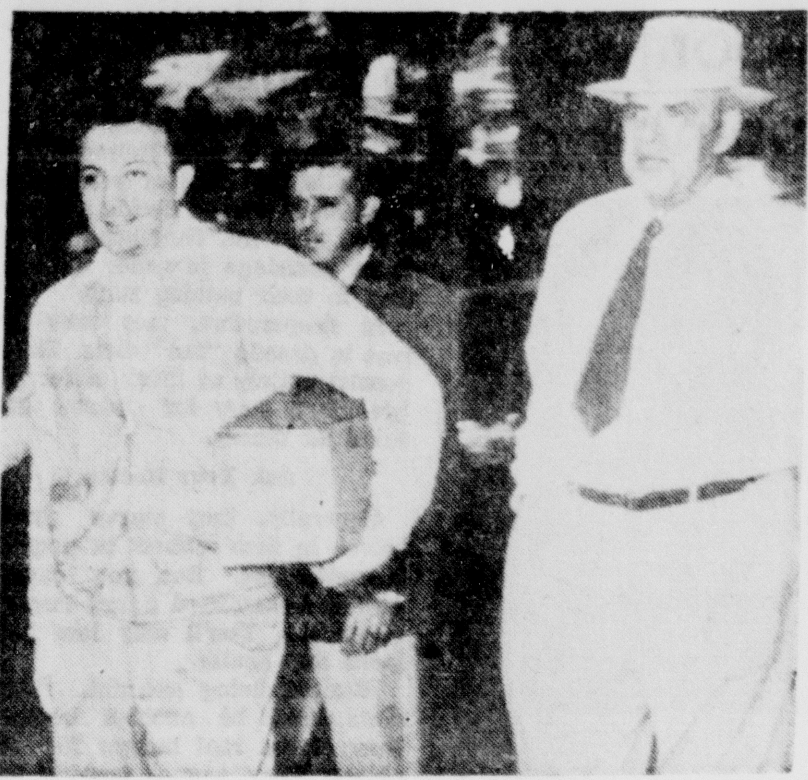

IONIA (AP)—Dr. Kenneth B. Small, acquitted slayer of his wife's admirer, today faced at least 3½ weeks more confinement in the Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. But he had hope of freedom after that.

The 31-year-old Detroit dentist's future appeared to hinge greatly on a circuit court hearing here Sept. 8.

Judge Morris K. Davis set that date Friday. He said he would rule at that time on whether Dr. Small is sane and whether his commitment to the hospital was valid.

If ruled sane, Dr. Small would be a free man for the first time since May 29, when he broke in on a gay weekend house party at a Lake Michigan summer home and shot and killed Jules Lack, 45-year-old New York playboy-businessman.

The house in New Haven, Conn., where Ethelbert Nevins, composer of "The Rosary" and "Mighty Lak a Rose" died, is marked with a bronze plaque.

Special Deer Season In Lower Peninsula OK'd

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

LANSING (AP)—The third consecutive any-deer season in the northern Lower Peninsula and nearly two months of waterfowl shooting for the second year has been ordered by the State Conservation Commission. The commission held a formal meeting Friday.

But the commission put the brakes on outdoor sportsmen in another direction by voting further restrictions on trout fishing, to take effect next year.

Only minor opposition by some northern residents was entered to permitting the Dec. 1 shooting of bucks, does and fawns north of M55 to further cut back the herd to levels that natural food will support.

Chosen By Lot

The number of hunters will be limited to 81,000, chosen by lot, and by eliminating all of Emmet and Charlevoix and parts of Cheboygan, Otsego, Antrim, Kalkaska and Grand Traverse counties from the special shoot.

In the strip between M55 and M72 and in the Leelanau Peninsula, 40,000 permits will be issued; between M72 and M33, 20,000 permits and north of M33, 21,000.

Fruit Harvest Below Normal

LANSING (AP)—Fruit prospects as of Aug. 1 indicate that the 1954 production of all major fruits will be below last year, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today.

The production of apples, peaches and sour cherries will be below the 10-year average. The production of pears, grapes, sweet cherries and plums is expected to be above average.

The total tonnage of the fruits is expected to approximate 314,000 tons, 28 per cent less than last year and 14 per cent below the 10-year average.

Pears — The pear production is estimated at 747,000 bushels, 41 per cent below last year but eight per cent above the 10-year average.

Grapes — The grape crop is estimated at 38,000 tons, 23 per cent less than last year and 17 per cent below the 10-year average.

Sweet cherries — The crop is estimated at 8,200 tons, 10 per cent less than last year but 57 per cent above the 10-year average.

Plums — The crop of plums and prunes is estimated at 6,000 tons, six per cent less than last year but 13 per cent above the 10-year average.

Polio Case Rate In State Running Below Last Year

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's infantile paralysis case rate continues to run below last year and the year previous, the State Health Department reported today.

There were 118 new polio cases reported last week compared with 148 during the same week last year and 243 two years ago.

The department said 33 of the new cases reported were from nine of the 10 counties that participated in the polio vaccine field trials.

Two Trustees Back, Two More Missing

IONIA (AP) — Two escaped Ionia Reformatory trustees were back in the fold today but two more were sought.

The latest pair to disappear were Leroy Schoonover, 25, serving 1½ to 15 years from Clinton County for breaking and entering, and Leonard C. Baldwin, 20, serving 1 to 5 years for car theft from Jackson. They were last seen in a dormitory. A search was on for them.

Earlier, two others walked away but were captured two hours later a short distance from the reformatory. They were Cecil Egner, 24, of Flint, serving 1½ to 5 years for larceny, and Frank Hepinstall, also 24, of Saginaw, serving 2½ to 5 years for car theft.

French Premier Faces Big Test

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France pressed on today with plans to push his version of a European Defense Community through France's National Assembly despite opposition which already has cost him three Cabinet ministers.

The Premier braced for another hurdle as he prepared to relay his proposals for a watered-down EDC to the five other prospective member states — Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, West Germany and Italy.

Mendes-France received a setback Friday night when three Cabinet members — all followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle—resigned in protest against his EDC plan. They were Gen. Pierre Koenig, defense minister; Jacques Chaban-Delmas, public works minister; and Maurice Lemaire, reconstruction minister.

DeGaullists Not Replaced

The De Gaullists helped win Mendes-France the premiership last June. Large sections of the Social Republican (De Gaulle) bloc voted for his confirmation in the Assembly.

Mendes-France said the three would not be replaced at present. He called on three other Cabinet members to double up and take over the vacant ministries until the EDC debate winds up in the Assembly.

Rocky Road Ahead

The Assembly is scheduled to begin debate Aug. 28.

A rocky road lies ahead for the dynamic premier in his campaign to align France with some sort of defense plan.

The first obstacle will be at Brussels where the foreign ministers of the six nations are slated to meet Thursday. Mendes-France will have to persuade the other five that they should accept EDC modifications as a price for getting French parliamentary approval.

Huge Church Built In Abandoned Salt Mine

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Within a vaulted chamber 345 feet beneath the earth's surface and nearly a mile inside an ancient salt mine, a great Roman Catholic church will be dedicated Sunday.

The ceremony climaxes a project which began five years ago when the Colombian government ordered a modest chapel carved inside the cavernous, billion-ton mountain of salt at Zipaquirá, near Bogota.

The chapel blossomed into a great, electrically illumined cathedral capable of holding 10,000 persons.

The church was originally planned for the benefit of Colombian miners who have been digging little niches in the salt crust for nearly a century and placing religious images within them.

But, as the architect, Jose Maria Gonzalez Concha, began charting plans inside the 70-foot-high salt-lined caverns, he envisaged a monumental church available to outside worshippers as well.

The church, believed unique in the Western Hemisphere, has been named after Our Lady of the Rosary, the miners' patron saint. Although still unfinished, it has become a landmark and attracts nearly 20,000 visitors a month.

To reach the church, tourists drive through a portal hacked in the mountainside by the Spanish conquistadores 400 years ago. Nearly a mile inside the vaulted galleries, supported by massive pillars of salt, they can park almost within view of the main altar, which lies beneath a great wooden cross, nearly 9,000 feet above sea level.

The church is in a mine gallery that has not been worked for nearly 20 years.

Party Fuss Brewing On Republican Incumbents

By JACK L. GREEN

LANSING — Republicans quietly are working themselves into a lather these days over the question of renominating their incumbent state officials.

The party doesn't want the hubbub to get so loud that it attracts attention, but there is no denying the fact that one wing of the party wants to drop all the incumbents, several blocs want to drop one or more of them and another group wants to renominate them all.

The men who are the center of this controversy are Attorney General Frank G. Millard, Auditor General John B. Martin, State Treasurer D. Hale Brake and Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary.

Leonard Is Neutral

Most party leaders are betting that when the fuss subsides all four will be renominated, but they concede they may have misjudged the situation.

Donald S. Leonard, the Republican nominee for governor, and, therefore, the new titular leader of the party, is saying that he will take no part in the controversy. Let the state convention decide, he says.

Part of the fuss arises from the fact that Brake and Cleary lost out to Leonard in the primary race

E. G. Robinson Jr. Held For Holdups

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Edward G. Robinson Jr., 21, son of the actor, must stand Superior Court trial on charges of holding up two taxi drivers. Arraignment is set for Aug. 30.

Young Robinson, acquitted of a bad check charge in 1952 and arrested other occasions on drunk counts, remained free on $10,000 bail posted by his father July 20.

Cab driver Michael J. Plascik testified at preliminary hearing Thursday that young Robinson was the passenger who hit him on the head and robbed him of $30 on June 25.

The second driver, Harry Cherneck, identified the actor's son as the man who poked a gun in his back saying "if you ever want to see daylight again, hand me all your money." That was July 1. Cherneck said he gave up $11.

Young Robinson says he is innocent.

for the governorship nomination. Cleary, especially, ran far behind.

Want U. P. Candidate

Another complicating fact is that renomination of the incumbents would leave no room to put an Upper Peninsula man on the State ticket—and that's not good politics.

But all reports indicate that so far the Upper Peninsula Republicans have not been able to agree on one man and thereby are losing the effectiveness of their demand for recognition. Convention leaders are in no mood to hold the ticket unfinished while the northern lads scrap among themselves.

The Michigan Township Officers Assn. has been stirring up opposition to Millard because of two legal opinions he wrote.

J. P. Fees Trimmed

One trimmed the fees which justices of the peace may pocket. The J. P.'s are mad about it.

The other opinion — advising many counties to use the higher state equalization as a base for levying taxes—has upset township supervisors and other tax assessors. In this opinion, apparently, all Millard did was bunch together conclusions drawn from Supreme Court decisions, but county officials are hollering just the same.

You add all these up and get the fact that the convention will be dominated by men friendly to Brake, Cleary, Millard and Martin—not the newcomer riding Leonard's coattails.

You get the powerful impression from many of the men who make the decisions that they don't want a violent party fight in an election year.

You get the suspicion that if a move is made against any of the four, the other three will be forced willy-nilly to come to his rescue. Because one break in the dike and the whole bunch might wash out.

Self-Unloader Will Be Launched Sept. 9

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—A seven million dollar, 606-foot self-unloader will be launched at Manitowoc Shipbuilding, Inc., yards Sept. 9, it was announced today.

The new ship, built for the American Steamship Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., will be a sister to the 640-foot John J. Boland, a self-unloader built here which went into service on the Great Lakes last year.

Shipyard officials said the vessel would be christened the Detroit-Edison by Mrs. Walker Cislcr, wife of the president of the Detroit firm. The ship will have a capacity of 16,500 tons of coal or 20,000 tons of stone and will go into service with the opening of navigation in 1955.

Andrews Base Bank Robbed

CAMP SPRINGS, Md. (AP)—Three bandits robbed the Andrews Air Force Base branch bank of $160,000 today, and police said a man they had arrested on a speeding charge was now considered a suspect.

The gunmen who "cleared out" the vault of the bank were Negroes. Detective Sgt. Charles L. Perrygo arrested three Negro men after an 80-mile-per-hour chase shortly after the bank was robbed.

Perrygo didn't know when he made his Friday the 13th arrest that the bank had been robbed.

Offered $20 Bribe

He said the driver offered him a $20 bribe, saying he was "in a hurry."

Perrygo took all three to the Prince Georges County police station, but the other two men fled when the driver was taken inside for booking on the speeding charge.

Andrews Field is just southeast of Washington, about ten miles from the Capitol.

A stunned official of the parent First National Bank of Southern Maryland said there was about $160,000 in the vault, and "they cleaned it out."

Employees Locked Up

There was no shooting, but an officer from the air base said an unidentified airman was "roughed up." He was not classed as injured.

The bandits, all Negroes, entered the branch bank located 10 miles southeast of the Capitol in adjacent Washington just a little after the bank opened at 9 a. m. (EDT).

They quickly herded the four employees, two of them women, into the vault and locked them in after picking up the money.

The employees were Herbert D. Pinckney, manager; Milton Sillner, Mrs. Margaret Sweider and Mrs. Bernadine Westcamp. None of them was injured.

B. Beall Sasser, assistant cashier at the main office in upper Marlboro, Md., said about half of the cash had been sent to the bank by registered mail last night.

It was picked up at the air base post office a half hour before the robbery.

Maryland state police broadcast an alarm for the gunmen.

Good Cheer, Good Food Combine To Make Farmers Market Popular

By J. R. LOWELL

Appetite been lagging? If it has, try a good tossed vegetable salad—one made of garden crisp lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes, green peppers, green onions—maybe a bit of mustard greens or water cress to give it zip. . . . Salad dressing? It doesn't matter too much—that is if the vegetables still have the dew on them—the kind you are pretty certain to get if you get up bright and early in the morning and get the first batch of garden stuff that arrives at the Escanaba Farmers Market.

Every Wednesday and Saturday morning during the summer—an hour or so before the average Escanaban bestirs himself—trucks loaded with every manner of seasonal garden produce arrive at the roofed-over stalls of the city owned market at the corner of Ninth street and First Avenue North.

From farm communities all over the area they come—many of them from as far away as Stephenson and Carney—their trucks loaded down with neatly bunched carrots, beets, turnips, rhubarb, bushel baskets swamped with green beans, peas, sweet corn, apples, and tomatoes. Some bring eggs, dressed poultry and rabbits—once in a while a side of pork or veal.

A Cheerful Place

Just now added color in gorgeous amounts is imparted to the scene by fresh cut gladioli. They are large and unusually beautiful this year, but growers state that they haven't reached their peak of perfection as yet. The yellows predominate now but the deep red and orange ones will bloom a week or so later on. Then will come dahlias, coxcomb, asters and mums.

The market is a cheerful place—especially at the time activities begin. Greetings are hearty, for country folks, unlike too many of their city cousins, are at their best at this time of the day. In fact, by seven o'clock, most of them have been up for two or three hours, have milked the cows, fed the livestock and then fortified themselves with good substantial farm food and plenty of it.

Regardless of weather or dearth of customers, the market at the beginning of the day is a heart warming place. Greetings are always cheerful and often hearty. Sometimes there's haggling but always with good nature. Everyone seems to enjoy it, especially if it begets repartee like that which came to light one morning when a customer pondered over the purchase of some eggs. There were large eggs, pullet eggs and cracked eggs subject to her in-

ESCANABA MARKET OPENS EARLY—Long before the average Escanaban bestirs himself, market gardeners have been up and about and ready for the first customers. specion. Finally she asked the Polish vendor: "Are you sure these cracked eggs are fresh?" "Yes ma'am," the lady behind the counter assured her. "Der hens vass in a hurry dis morning."

Very Little Rivalry

Strangely enough, though many gardeners bring in the same kind of produce, there is seldom any evidence of sharp rivalry among them. In fact, customers have often noted a pleasant spirit of cooperation among them. As in the case of one incident overheard last Wednesday, "These cucumbers are very nice," the customer was heard to say, "but they aren't exactly what I want. I want them for chunk pickles."

"Yes, I understand," said the gardener. "I'll maybe have some for next week, but I suppose you want them right away. . . . Well, you go down—let's see—five stalls from this one and I'm sure she'll have what you want."

As to prices charged these people are quick to explain that they are not there to undersell. Their purpose is to provide top quality goods at reasonable prices. They have, at times, of course, like the stores in general, bargains in this or that commodity. But those who buy have more often than not been pleased by the generous measure of Danforth, offered this week a new potato—a variety so new that it has not as yet been given a name.

One of these, Llewellyn Larson, of Danforth, offered this week a new potato—a variety so new that it has not as yet been given a name.

There are always to be found a different variety from the ordinary of lettuce, cabbage, beans and sweet corn.

In Operation 10 Years

This market has been in operation for more than ten years, although the present modern facilities have not been available for more than four years.

About ten years ago, at the urgent request of many farmers in the area that they be provided with some place in the city where they could vend their produce, a vacant lot on the corner of Ninth and Ludington—back of where Richard Flath has his pop corn stand—was placed at their disposal.

The space was soon found to be inadequate and frontage on First Avenue North in the 800 block was assigned for their needs. This also was soon overcrowded. Four years ago, the space at Ninth and First Avenue North was fitted out with roofed over counters and places where trucks may be parked and unloaded. There are 18 stalls, but the space in each is generous and more often than not two and sometimes three vendors are accommodated at one stall.

Space is not reserved for anyone and it is taken up on a first-come first served basis. No charge or license fee is required.

If you haven't contacted these pleasant people and taken home some of the fine produce they have to offer, you've missed something very much worth while.

COMES LONG DISTANCE — One of the best known of the many produce vendors at the Escanaba Market is Mrs. John Koldos, who comes all the way from near Wallace. Mr. and Mrs. Koldos have been bringing vegetables to the market for the past ten years.

Gladstone Blacksmith Shop Survives Horse Era, Designs Ornamental Iron

By TOM BOLGER

A blacksmith shop in these days of the horseless carriage is almost a thing of the past—at least a rarity. However, there is one in Gladstone which has survived the advent of the automobile because of the willingness and ability of the owner to adapt himself to the times.

That is the shop of Carl Nyberg and Son at 14 S. 10th St.

In it stand the forge and anvil with which Nyberg has fashioned many a horseshoe and other items of metal. Around the shop, now, though are modern machines, lathes, drill presses, grinders, welders.

There, too, every day is Carl, who though approaching 80 still puts in a full day with time out for coffee which he has at home, riding his bike to and from the shop.

Fashioning of ornamental iron work for porches is one of the new types of work done at the shop to supplant the old. Another is the manufacture of television antenna towers and hundreds of these have been turned out in the past two years. Then there is lawn-mower repairing and sharpening, welding, and general machine work.

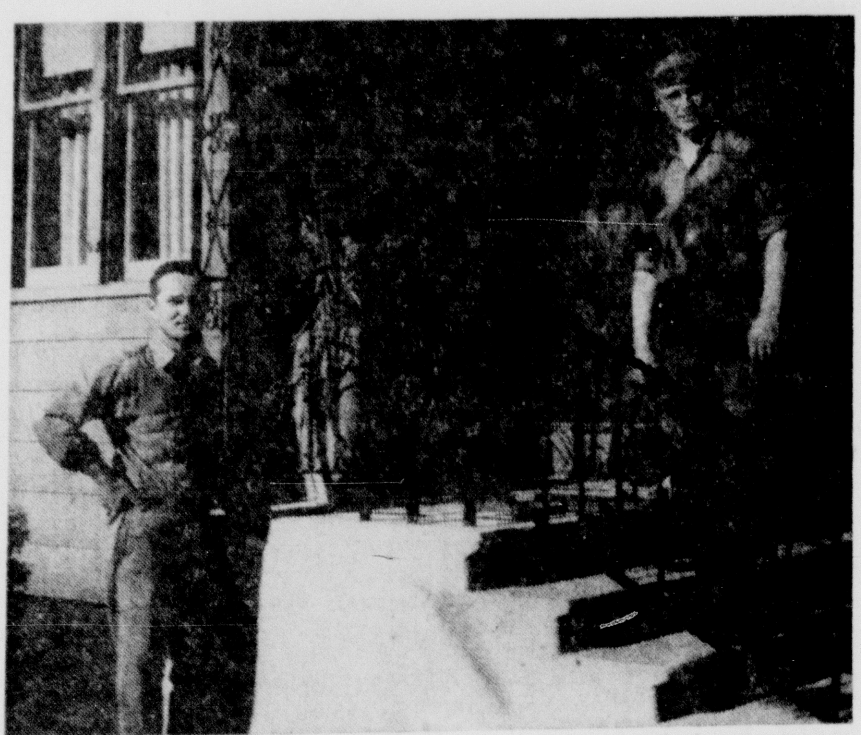

Born at Kalmar in Southern Sweden in February of 1875 Nyberg learned his trade in his homeland before coming to America as a young man in 1903. Upon arrival in his adopted land he went to Brainerd where he worked for two years in the shops of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

In 1905 he came to Gladstone and worked for W. M. Miller, father of Frank J. Miller, of Gladstone, in the blacksmith shop which he was later to purchase. He also worked some for Swan Kjellander who also had a blacksmith shop then located in the building now occupied by the Beauty Garage and spent some time at Kenosha working for the Nash and Rambler Automobile Co.

In 1916 he purchased the Miller shop here and since that time has operated it steadily except for a period of two months in 1939 when he took his only vacation since starting in business. That was a trip to his homeland—Sweden.

In the early days shoeing horses was one of the big revenue producing works along with the repairing of wagons and sleighs and other types of work incidental to smithing.

past, Carl believes the last horseshod in the shop was 18 years ago. Nyberg looked about for new types of work—new income sources—in allied fields.

Making of auto trailers and boxes for them was one. Welding, another. Gradually others followed.

Today porches of many homes in this area are graced with handwrought ornamental hand rails or posts manufactured in the Nyberg shop. All is custom made after measurements have been taken and the owner determines the style desired.

It is manufactured from malleable iron and the major part of the bending and twisting before assembly is done cold.

Nation's Kitchens And Drug Cabinets Have New Guardian

By KENNETH O. GILMORE

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—The American housewife has a new guardian of her kitchen cabinet and medicine chest. But he's an old hand at the job.

George P. Larrick is replacing retired Charles W. Crawford as Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

Larrick has been working up the ranks in FDA for the past 30 years and is the nation's top expert at keeping bad food and misleading drugs and cosmetics off the market.

They've recently hung the name "fingers" on him due to a grisly coincidence. The FDA just wrapped up a case against a packing company for putting out a can of food containing human fingers. The concern was fined $800 for failing to make a thorough search for the missing fingers which were sliced off in an accident.

About the same time Larrick cut off the end of his own thumb while fixing some machinery on his Virginia farm.

Many were afraid an outside politician would be named as Commissioner. Larrick is hardly that. In 1923 he joined the FDA as inspector after specialized training in chemistry and biology at George Washington University.

A slight, unassuming man of medium height, Larrick looks younger than his 53 years. He speaks in quiet tones and his modesty belittles numerous notable accomplishments. The case of the missing fruit cake has become a legend at the FDA.

In 1928 Larrick had just come to Washington on a trial basis as an administrative assistant. A week before Christmas a doctor came into his office with a fruit cake he claimed had made him and his friends violently ill.

A quick check in the laboratory showed the cake contained arsenic and when Larrick heard about it he moved fast. After tracing down the woman who made the cakes, he recovered all but one of the seven she had sold. His only lead to that missing one was that a traveling saleswoman had traded some vanilla for the cake and sent it as a present to her brother in Canada.

As Dec. 25 drew near Larrick began a life and death search for some clue as to the identity of the woman and her brother.

After endless inquiries Larrick finally turned up another brother of the saleswoman. He rushed to his home far out in Virginia and got the address of relatives in Canada. Larrick then sought the help of the Canadian Embassy; and within a few hours the cake was in safe hands and on its way back to Washington by diplomatic pouch. Under the gay wrappings FDA chemists found a deadly poisonous cake.

Dr. Paul B. Dunbar, FDA commissioner from 1945 to 1951, says this was a typical example of the outstanding ability Larrick showed as a young man.

From 1930 to 1945 he served as FDA's senior inspector and chief inspector. This position took him all over the nation and he gained a reputation as a crackpot investigator. But sometimes the work was frustrating. On one case he spent five months digging up evidence for a trial that wound up with a hung jury.

When he moved up the line as assistant, associate and then deputy commissioner, Larrick was able to settle down.

He now has a small farm on the edge of the Potomac out in Virginia, where he likes to spend his week-ends tending a four acre garden and fishing. The new commissioner has twin 16-year-old sons, a daughter in her twenties and a married son—and is a grandfather.

New Milk Handling Plan Keeps Product Clean And Cold

THESE PICTURES demonstrate a new system for handling milk from the producer to the milk plant that is gaining in popularity in the nation's dairy state, Wisconsin. The plant created considerable interest in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan also. Milk from the dairy herds is stored on the farm in refrigerated stainless steel tanks such as this one above. The milk is maintained at a temperature of 36 degrees.

PUMPED TO REFRIGERATED truck directly from the farmer's refrigerated tanks, the milk is not touched by human hands. The pumping process speeds the milk from the tank to the truck so that the milk does not have an opportunity to lose its coldness in the operation. This procedure results in a cleaner product and saves considerable farm labor. The stainless steel tanks are sterilized daily.

THE COLD MILK is transported from the dairy farms to the milk plants in these refrigerated trucks. The milk has reached the milk plant at a temperature of 33 degrees. New Houses Sell On Kitchen Merits

A MODERN KITCHEN is so dear to a woman's heart that many new houses are sold in the kitchen. The builders install an array of the latest equipment — dishwasher, automatic range, refrigerator, sleek cabinets and a spectacular sweep of seamless colorful countertops. Well, what chance does a mere man have to examine construction while his wife is in a daze in that kitchen?

Take heart, men, if you're handy. You can give the little lady a kitchen like that in your own house and keep her in love with the place and with you. Of course, it takes a little doing and a little wherewithal, but it can be a lot cheaper than buying a new house in order to get a new kitchen.

YOU PROBABLY know fellows who built their own knotty pine kitchen cabinets and had them turn out fine. If such cabinet work is beyond you, consider steel kitchen cabinets already enameled as slick as a refrigerator. She doesn't like white? Spray paint them, as you would paint your car, or take them to an auto body works and have them sprayed marine-cherry or mountain sea shell, or what ever color she must have.

We happen to know a couple of men who installed their own mail order dishwashers. Their local plumbing supply houses helped them out with an assortment of couplings, unions, elbows and other fittings giving them credit for what they didn't need. This is a do-it-yourself age, you know. But when it comes to those smart plastic countertops, you may feel stumped. It's an expensive job to have them fitted tightly around the sink and trimmed with chrome around all edges. You've been told, perhaps, that you can do it, but you wonder about the hazards involved.

Most of the plastic laminates used for these modern countertops are rigid sheets which you cement to a plywood underlayment. The plywood surface is sanded smooth, adhesive is spread evenly over the entire surface; the laminate, cut to fit, is carefully laid in place and pressed down with a rolling pin. Then the edges are trimmed and chromium molding is put on.

NOW THERE'S a new product on the market to make this job a little simpler. It is a plastic board composed of synthetic resins and paper. It comes in a thickness of one-tenth of an inch and is slightly curved for tension. The importance of the curve is that it eliminates the usual need for lamination on the plywood base by adhesives. The surface is held in place by its own spring tension when forced and held by metal edging.

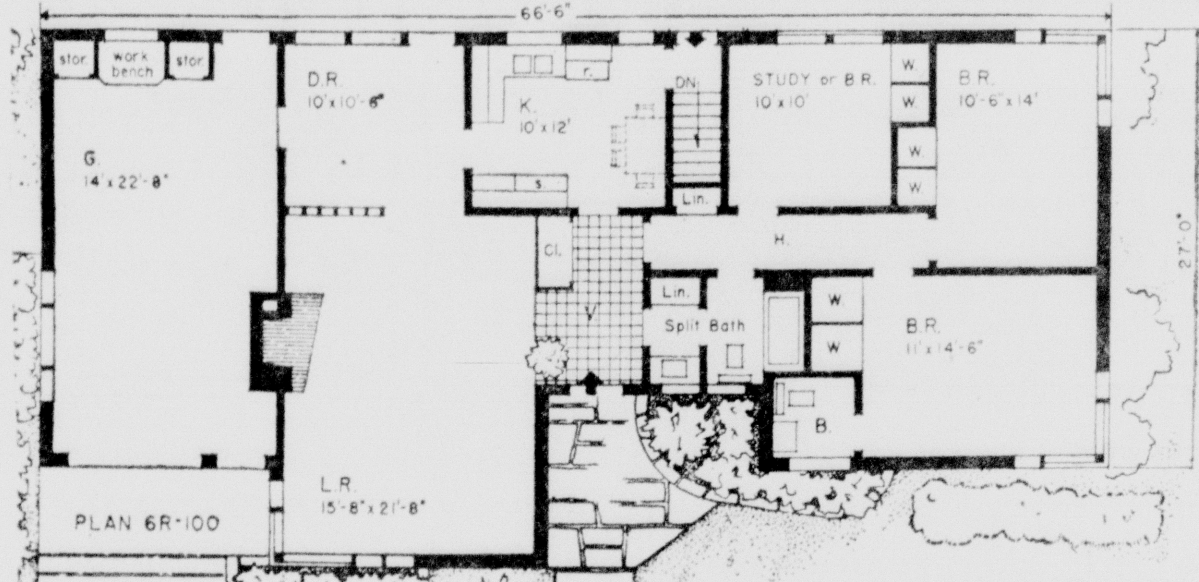

You can use standard metal moldings made for any eighth-inch thick material or for standard gauge lineoleum. Any unevenness of the under-surface is filled with a special mastic and a strip of the maties about 12 inches wide is smeared down the middle, ending about 6 inches from each end. The rest of the sheet is held by tension.

Developed by one of the biggest paper companies, this material is chemically inert and impervious to water. But material under it, such as plywood, wallboard, plaster or lineoleum, must be protected from moisture. So thorough caulking around molding edges is called for.

You can handle these sheets with ordinary tools—a fine tooth saw, a file or a plane. One of the big advantages is the ease with which the material can be placed over a spoiled countertop.

THERE'S ONE THING to remember about all plastic laminates, however—at least, all we have seen—and that is, don't place a hot pan on them, or let the rays of an electric broiler radiate directly on them. Some salesmen like to show how such plastics are not harmed by a burning cigarette butt, and some are not. But a hot pan is something else. It can cause the surface to buckle, or worse. Keep pans on the stove.

BROAD AND LOW, this house is designed for brick veneer on wood frame construction with an asphalt shingle roof. It can be built with or without a basement—stairway shown, allowing for enlargement of kitchen, while garage is wide enough to accommodate a heating unit.

Japan's Recovery In Nine Years Is Miracle

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP) — Nine years ago Japan surrendered. Today the dazed, defeated nation of 1945 has been spectacularly rebuilt and is tied economically and militarily to its former enemy, the United States.

While the scars of a devastating war have been almost entirely erased, the island empire is almost broke. The United States is gravely concerned. Relations with the United States are delicate.

Nine years ago this Sunday, Emperor Hirohito broadcast Japan's surrender in a quivering, high-pitched voice. Japan was shattered. The vast empire had collapsed like a soap bubble.

40 Cities Wrecked

More than 40 of Japan's cities were wrecked, two by atomic bombs. Millions of Japanese in rags roamed in apathy in the ruins.

If the handful of U.S. soldiers who landed gingerly a few days later could have jumped the years and seen the Japan of 1954 they would have called it a miracle.

Today Japanese look well fed and healthy. Stores are crammed with attractive goods. But the prosperous facade hides a deep economic illness inevitable in a nation shorn of its overseas conquests and forced to support a population half as large as that of the United States on four home islands whose total area is about that of California.

Must Trade To Live

Japan must trade to live. It is spending twice as much as it earns. Substantial aid probably must come from the United States to see Japan through the next few years.

Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's pro-American administration has adopted a tight austerity program to force Japan to live within its income. This austerity has caused business firms — most of them fly-by-night — to collapse right and left.

Japan's old market in China has gone behind the Bamboo Curtain. Communist China offers all manner of trade bait to woo Japan from the United States. Some business leaders are interested.

The markets in Southeast Asia are partly blocked by a lack of diplomatic relations. This is due to slow negotiations over the war reparations Japan is to pay the Philippines, Burma and Indonesia.

Yoshida's administration is beset by growing criticism aimed both at him and at the United States. The steady stream of criticism of the United States in press and radio suggests U.S. influence in Japan may be at its lowest ebb since the war.

The Japanese are just as critical of the Soviet bloc and the Communist party in Japan has little influence. But a trend toward "neutrals" in the manner of India is apparent.

A storm has swirled about Yoshida. The left and right wings of the Socialist party accused him of covering up the shipbuilding bribery scandals. They demanded he quit.

The right wing Socialists called for peace treaties with both Red China and Russia. There is much hope in Japan that co-existence with the Red nations is possible.

4 Birmingham Cops Arrested

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Arrest of four policemen and suspension of five others is the first-day score in a crackdown on police burglary rings estimated to involve $50,000 in loot.

Police Director Paul Singer warned that 50 or more policemen may have been involved in the operations over a two year period.

The retired Army officer issued the statement Wednesday as raiding squads led by superior officers searched the homes of 23 policemen for stolen goods.

Four officers had been jailed and five others suspended late Wednesday night, while the hunt continued on a round-the-clock basis.

Property of all kinds taken from the homes for an ownership check piled up at headquarters. Police Commissioner Robert Lindbergh estimated that $50,000 in money and property was stolen during the series of break-ins.

"We are going to track this down to the end," said Lindbergh.

Singer cautioned the public that only a fraction of the department's

Stolen Money Pays Honeymoon Spree

NEW YORK (AP) — A teen-age couple who went on a honeymoon spree with $5,800 stolen from the bride's father have been charged with grand larceny—although the father says he's willing to forgive and forget.

Harvey J. Wurtzberger and the former Deborah Ann Fine, both 16 and of the Bronx, eloped Aug. 3 and were picked up three days later in Washington, D. C.

Admittedly financed by money taken from the safe of Deborah's father, movie theater manager David Fine, the couple bought a new $4,000 convertible, ran up a $208 hotel bill, and lavished considerable sums on night-clubbing and exorbitant tips.

Deborah's father refused to sign a complaint but the district attorney's office stepped into the case and arrested the young couple Thursday.

Former Escanaba Clayton Lindquist added further laurels to his already impressive golf record recently when he won the Milwaukee Journal golf tournament with a 282 total in 72-hole medal play. . . Clayton, former Escanaba High School golfer, was three strokes up on his nearest rival. . . The 21-year-old links ace carded a 69-72-141 in the final 36 holes Sunday. . . He previously led Milwaukee's public golfers in the national Public Links tourney at Dallas, Texas.

The Upper Peninsula Golf Association's annual tournament will be played on an 18-hole course for the first time in history next year when the Canadian Soo is host on its new course. . . The old Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., course was a 9-hole layout and they paired up with the Michigan Soo to be host to the U. P. tournament back in 1926. . . A year ago the club decided to rebuild and tore up the old course to fashion a real tough 18-hole affair.

Pete Tinsley, former Green Bay Packer lineman who moved from Rock to Munising as grid coach this year, will have 15 Mustang lettermen back in the fold when the 1954 season gets under way.

It appears that at least two Upper Peninsula athletes will be seeing a lot of action on the University of Wisconsin football team this fall. . . Bob Gingrass, of Iron Mountain, is the leading candidate for the starting left halfback position and Jerry Cvenegros, Ironwood, is a leading sophomore candidate for a tackle spot.

Cubs Host To Bark River In Waubung League Finale

The Esby Cubs will close out one of their most successful Waubung League seasons in recent years when they play host to the Bark River team Sunday at 2. Coach Al Ness' American Legion Junior charges will enter the final game of the season with a record of eight victories against a single loss in league play.

The Cubs tasted defeat for the first time last weekend at Stephenson where they bowed 3-1 to the second-place team in the standings.

A victory Sunday over Bark River, winless in league play this year, will assure the Cubs of sole possession of the Waubung pennant.

In their previous meeting with the Barks, the Cubs notched a 19-3 victory.

The Cubs have scored 76 runs against 23 for their nine foes this season while notching double wins over Carney, Powers and Gladstone and single wins over Stephenson and Bark River.

The Cubs will hurl either John Berrigan or Ricky Erickson against Bark River with the likely starters being Allen Erickson behind the plate, Joe Juettan at first, Cliff O'Donnell at second, Buckly Flath at third, Billy Goodreau at short, Bob Chriske in left field, Dave Viau in center and Denis McGinn in right.

Other final games in the league will have Stephenson at Carney and Powers at Gladstone.

tique Fords 17-0 and Paper Mill edged Powers 2-1.

Clairmonts and the Millers will terminate in last night's action as Clairmont Transfer blasted Manismeet for the Class B title at 6:30 Sunday evening.

Johnny Baker twirled a sparkling two-hitter against Manistique, facing only 23 men and walking none. The Clairmonts backed him up with errorless ball. The only hits off Baker were singles in the sixth by Clyde Strasser and Junior Middaugh.

Al Adams held Clairmonts to one run on two hits until the fifth inning when the roof fell in. Clairmonts picked up a total of 10 hits off Adams. Bill Baker and Duane Benard had two hits apiece for the winners.

Mill Edges Powers
Paper Mill earned the right to meet Clairmonts for the B title by edging Powers 2-1. Both teams scored their runs in the initial inning after which Bob Corriveau and Gene Verhamme shut the door on the runners.

Powers tallied in the top of the inning when Bob Triest walked and came in on a single by Bill Anderson.

The Mill came back in the last of the first with Roy VanEffen doubling and scoring on a single by Bud Noel. Noel scored on a grounder by Joran, the play being made at the plate.

Verhamme tossed four-hit ball for Paper Mill and Corriveau limited Paper Mill to five hits. VanEffen collected two of the hits for the winners.

In the Class A feature game Northland Bread took a 3-2 lead in the first inning but saw it vanish as Munising scored a trio in the fourth.

Win In 7th
Still trailing 5-3 in the last of the seventh, Northland came to life for three runs to cop the decision. Don Scott walked, Angie Hirn singled and Ray Ebl was on with an error at second base to load the bases.

PeeWee Marengier flied out to center field to score Scott from third and Jack Beck poked his third hit of the game to score Hirn with the tying run. Ken Olson slapped a grounder that was bobbled by the Munising second baseman and Ebl came home with the deciding run.

Northland Bread collected 11 hits off Art Bader who went the distance for Munising. Tom Du-four had three for four and Beck three for three. Ken Dufresne and Les Kamine shared the Northland hill and gave up seven hits.

55-Day Duck Season Asked

By JAMES A. O. CROWE
LANSING (AP)—A 55-day waterfowl hunting season, the same as last year, was recommended to the State Conservation Commission today.

The commission, meeting today and Friday, will act on the waterfowl season and proposals for a limited special season on deer in the northern Lower Peninsula.

The Conservation Department game division today gave the commission its recommendations for this fall's season on ducks, geese, woodcock, jacksnipe and other migratory birds.

Maximum Allowed

The 55-day season is the maximum allowable under federal regulations, published this week. As last year, the season would start at noon Oct. 1 and run through Nov. 24 throughout the state. Shooting hours would be unchanged—from one half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The woodcock season would coincide with other upland game seasons—from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1 in the Upper Peninsula, Oct. 1 to Nov. 9 in the northern Lower Peninsula and Oct. 20 to Nov. 9 in the southern Lower Peninsula.

The jacksnipe season would remain at Oct. 1 to Oct. 15 statewide.

Bag Limits Unchanged

Bag limits would remain at four ducks, five geese, four woodcock, and eight jacksnipe a day.

The game division has already recommended either a one-day or a three-day special season on buck, doe and fawn deer immediately following the regular Nov. 15-30 regular buck season. The special season is intended to cut down deer overpopulation.

The special season would apply only north of M55 and south of the Straits of Mackinac and would exclude parts of some northwestern counties.

Slated also for decision are proposals to restrict trout fishing by adding to the list of streams where fly fishing only would be permitted and by asking the Legislature to shorten the season to run from the second Saturday in May to Labor Day and to reduce the daily stream limit from 10 to eight.

Modeling Not Road To Films

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Many stage-struck girls dream of becoming a fashion model—and going on from there to fame and fortune in Hollywood.

If you have that dream, girly, you might as well ditch it now, unless you like to play the long odds.

This is on the advice of Mona Freeman, the exception who proves the rule. She won attention as a child model, and her pretty face adorned many a magazine cover before she made the grade in the movies.

Few Made It

"But modeling isn't generally a big stepping stone to a film career," she remarked, "although many people seem to think it is." "Offhand, the only former models I can recall who went into the films are Lauren Bacall, Gene Tierney, Jinx Falkenberg, Phyllis Kirk and...uh...Marilyn Monroe. There are probably a number of others but, comparatively speaking, they are few."

Mona, who at 28 still looks like a blonde college freshman, quit modeling at 17 to try her luck in the movies. She has made between 25 and 30 films, the latest being "Battle Cry," based on a best-selling novel about the Marines by Leon Uris.

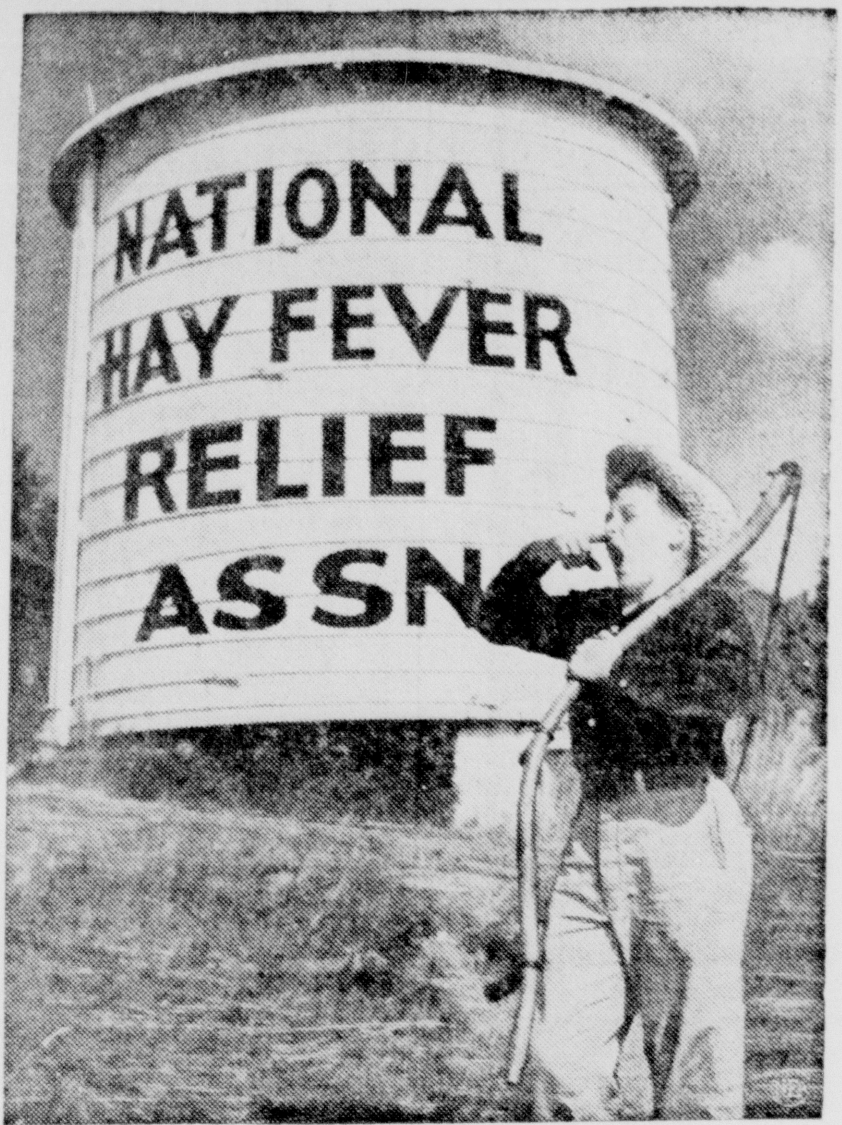

Modeling Is Simple

After working her way into that $1,550-a-week-and-up bracket, Mona is in a good position to compare her careers as model and actress.

"Modeling is an art, but is comparatively simple to learn," she said. "A girl who can learn to model at all can do so in a year."

"And if she hits the top, she can make $600 a week or more. A girl doing that well at modeling quite often doesn't see why she should throw away that kind of money to take a chance on flopping in Hollywood."

SNEEZE-FREE—Lee Gregory simulates a healthy sneeze as he starts to do some farm work at Bethlehem, N. H., where the National Hay Fever Relief Association has set up its headquarters. The air is pollen-free at the farm, but Lee shows he still remembers how to go "atchoo."

THE STORY: A murder charge against Manny Harpending, a cowboy, has resulted in an acquittal verdict in a "jackrabbit" trial in the trail town of Sage City, Kan. Harpending is fined for disturbing the peace. Harpending is freed mainly through the efforts of Jacob Fugger, who rules the town and who wishes to keep the place "wide open" so the cowboys will spend money in his places of business. Fighting for decency is Luke Miller, editor of a weekly paper. Working for Miller is a printer named "John Bailey," who really is Wes Tancered, slayer of a notorious, but popular outlaw, Sam Older. Because of Older's slaying, Tancered has adopted an assumed name and only Laura Vesser, who works for Fugger, knows his real identity.

XII

Fugger signaled to Hong Kong Smith. The big Texas man hesitated, then reached into his pocket and brought out a fistful of money. "Here's your money, Judge, but I don't mind telling you that I don't like it."

Fugger stepped up beside Smith. "We can't turn him altogether free, Hong Kong. Not after what Miller printed in his paper today."

"I bring my herds to this town and I spend a lot of money here. I expect a few small favors in return. If I don't get them, I can take my business to Dodge..."

"Where Wyatt Earp'll make your boys toe the line," snapped Fugger.

"There're other places." "Let's talk about it," suggested Fugger. "Dinner's almost ready. Let's go to my house and have dinner and talk things over."

Hong Kong Smith smiled. "That's more like it." He turned, waved to his men. "All right, boys, you can go now. Have lots of fun and I'll see you all later on."

Harpending swaggered over. "Who's the Yankee who hit me when I wasn't looking? I got a score to settle with him." He whirled, grabbed Gorey's shirt-front in his fist. "It wasn't you, was it?"

Gorey said, "His name is John other charge, disturbing the peace, and he was found guilty." She paused. "He was fined $25 and Mr. Smith paid the fine. Now...about you. The train doesn't leave until morning."

"I'm not going anywhere."

"You missed what I was trying to tell you. Harpending's free. He's a Texas man and all Texas men are proud. You humiliated him and he's got to wipe that out."

"He can't taunt me into a gunfight."

"Yes."

"I hope not, John." Then she blinked. "Hey, wait a minute, this is Lily Leeds." She looked at Tancered, her eyes wide. "Well, what'dya know, I was worrying about you."

"Don't, Lily."

A faint smile flitted over her lips. "I haven't worried about anyone but myself in a long while. I'm 24 years old. When I'm 28, Lily Leeds will disappear. And somewhere, maybe in Chicago, New York or even Paris, a widow will appear. A young widow of quality. She will have inherited a considerable fortune from her deceased husband and she will marry even greater wealth."

Tancered nodded thoughtfully. "You'll make it, Lily."

"I know I will." She paused again. "And you, John?"

He shrugged.

Lily shook her head. "You're a marked man. Violence breeds around you. Oh, I know, you think you can avoid it. Like now. You humiliated one of the worst men ever to come out of Texas and you think you can avoid fighting him...to the finish. And what was it at Turkey Crossing? What was the provocation there?"

"They killed a man who didn't have a chance."

"But wasn't there a girl there? The daughter of the station agent?"

"Yes."

"Yet you rode away after killing the outlaws?"

Tancered put down the emptied beer glass. "I guess I'll go and have some supper."

Lily laughed, but there was no humor in it. "I don't blame you, I just can't keep my mouth shut. You'll come back?"

Tancered nodded and went out. (To Be Continued)

Trusted Employee Flees With Payroll

NEW YORK (AP)—Eleven years ago Albert Dorsey was paroled on a burglary sentence and given a job by a Brooklyn shoe factory. The 54-year-old Dorsey became the firm's "most trusted employee."

Wednesday, as paychecks were being handed out at the plant, Dorsey suddenly grabbed $3,750 in payroll envelopes from a woman bookkeeper and fled.

Factory vice president Samuel Dones said:

"I would have trusted him with anything. I even let him keep a set of keys to this place. Why did he do a thing like that?"

Season Gets Closer

Fewer Grouse This Year But Trend Will Reverse

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

Associated Press Outdoor Editor
LANSING (AP)—Though it is a mouth and a half away, bird hunting is beginning to edge its way tantalizing into the minds of the hundreds of thousands who enjoy it in Michigan.

The first bird hunting possible is or the prized ruffed grouse in the northern Lower Peninsula and the Upper Peninsula and sharp-tailed grouse and prairie chicken in the Upper Peninsula starting Oct. 1.

No one should expect to go out this year and bring back a basketful of grouse. The three species are in the midst of their mysterious downward cycle, and their numbers are definitely down from last year.

Will Increase Soon

Hunters, however, were urged by biologists not to be alarmed, because as sure as the birds decline, they will increase again in a few years. Before long they will be back, as plentiful as ever.

Careful studies show that hunting pressure has little if any effect on speeding up the declines or slowing up the increases.

So the State Conservation Commission has decreed virtually no curtailment of grouse hunting. The only curtailment was the closing of six central northern Lower Peninsula counties, formerly open to sharp-tailed and prairie chicken hunting. The populations of these species are small and artificially introduced, so it was thought best to give them every chance to get better established.

Ends Nov. 1

Otherwise, seasons and bag limits remain the same. The ruffed grouse is legal game north of the Pinconning-Clare-Pentwater line starting Oct. 1. As far north as the Straits of Mackinac, the season runs until Nov. 10. In the Upper Peninsula, where sharp-tailed and prairie chicken may also be hunted, the season ends Nov. 1, the same as last year.

He Didn't Even Say 'Charge It'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A man carefully selected an assortment of groceries at George Parker's store. The bill came to more than $10. Instead of handing over the money, the man asked Parker—at gunpoint—to open the cash register.

Parker refused. The fellow put his revolver in his pocket, picked up the bag of groceries and fled from the store.
